

Progressing biomedical research through human-based innovation – The role of the European Commission

Annalisa Gastaldello

The Joint Research Centre (JRC) of the European Commission supplies knowledge and evidence to guide policy development. Within the JRC, the European Reference Laboratory for Alternatives to Animal Testing (EURL ECVAM), based in Ispra, Italy, is mandated to generate, validate, disseminate, and advocate for non-animal methods in testing and research using evidence-based science. This presentation will showcase EURL ECVAM's various tools and projects aimed at promoting human-relevant methods and approaches.
